

DIESEL ELECTRIC UNIT ARRIVES IN PAHOKEE

Sufficient Equipment To Fight Cattle Fever

Pahokee's new Diesel engine and generator arrived this week and have been moved into the new water works building to await the arrival of an erector. Town officials said yesterday that the factory man, representing Fairbanks-Morse company, was on his way and is scheduled to arrive some time during the week end.

The equipment as bought from the Fairbanks-Morse company consists of a 40-h.p. Diesel engine with generator of 25 kw., 3-phase, 60 cycle, 240 volts capacity with a centrifugal pump directly connected. The pump is large enough to care for all needs in the plant, it was stated.

Town officials state that the new plant is of sufficient capacity to manufacture enough electricity to run the entire water works system and also pull a sizeable string of street lights if necessary. The machinery was bought at a cost of $5,795.44, with a down payment of $200, another payment of $100 upon shipment, and another $300 upon completion of installation with the balance in 24 months.

Since the water works system was put into operation several weeks ago the town has been purchasing electricity from the Florida Power and Light company to run the electric pumps. With the new set-up it is planned to manufacture all necessary electricity to operate the entire plant.

of 30,000 spoons into 30,000 dishes of ice cream, and then conveying these tons of luscious sweetness into 30,000 waiting mouths. And yet, that is the exact scene that will be presented this coming August 21-30 when the 30,000 Boy Scouts, attending their National Jamboree at Washington, gather around the 5,250 dinner tables on the one Sunday they will be camp-campus there. 'Bananas? How long do you figure that it will take those boys to surround the 30,000 bananas that they will consume at any one meal? 30,000 quarts of fresh milk would seem to be the despair of any herd of Jersey cows, almost regardless of the number of them, that might be asked to supply this amount daily and yet that is the amount that will be provided regularly. Just Imagine 39,000 quart bottles of milk left on your doorstep one morning; 17,000 loaves of bread a day; 17,000 pounds of fresh meat; 900 bushels of potatoes, which is sliced, fried and laid out flat would cover a platter measuring over 2½ acres in extent. Yet 39,000 hungry Boy Scouts will "surround" you.

those acres of potatoes quicker than a boy could run around a platter of that size. But regardless of the quantities of food that will be required, a carefully prepared and balanced meal will be served in every instance, all of it cracked for calory, vitamin and other food values.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

Sarasota Herald: The state legislature in voting to repeal the 1928 tax certificate foreclosure laws and return to the old tax system, offered as the reason that the law prompted "tax sharps" and "vultures" to buy certificates.

In Sarasota county the 1929 tax foreclosure laws were responsible for a vast improvement in the condition of the county. Delinquents were purposely refusing to pay taxes because there was no law forcing them to pay under the 1929 laws had to stop up and settle with the tax collector. It is only reasonable that every one who owns property should be made to pay taxes, and when the delinquents refuse to pay and are permitted to retain possession of their property, it is gross unfairness to those who pay taxes.

The law was a booster of Sarasota county's school revenue, as well as other branches of the government, and it is doubtful if the schools here could have continued in operation, certainly not for full terms, in the absence of the 1929 laws.

citizens elected cocktails, the com-

Knoxville has a vested interest in Georgia, one of the states' primary products. Many are engaged in making the automobile industry more efficient in a satisfying business. Repeal of state probation laws means more money for the state, more money for the state's manufacturers, vendors and customers voted against it.

It is true, however, that the citizens are to be added to the citizens' "revenue" and other branches of the government, and the people voted for a more accessible and dependable supply of tax money. In the neighborhood of its origin, before the ruthless and unscrupulous speculators came, it was pure, potent and cheap, enjoying a deserved preference over the higher priced watered stock, otherwise labeled

"stocks," in bottles bearing the names of the cities.

Having had a taste with brandy, bootleggers and boot leggers, the citizens voted for improvement by way of repeal. In the country the issue was different. Having the issue, the rural people decided to bear them rather than fly to others that they know not of. It was the business proposition also appealed to them less than to the cities.

By voting against repeal they gave up a liquor tax but on the other hand they preserved a local industry.

LOTTERY PLAN WOULD BRING IN $10,000,000

Would Use Vast Amount to Pay Old Age Pensions

TALLAHASSEE, May 23.—(AP)—Unable to find revenue sufficient to finance pensions for Florida's old, the legislature has turned to a proposed state lottery calculated to produce $10,000,000 annually to cover old age pensions and a generous surplus for the general fund.

The lottery resolution, subject to approval by the voters as an amendment, would be submitted at the general election next fall. It requires the necessary two-thirds majority of both the house and senate. It was approved jointly by Senators Smith, of Green Cove Springs, Clarke, of Monticello, Murphy, of Zolfo Springs, and Adams, of Jasper.

Creating what would be known as the Florida Emergency Tax Relief association, the amendment authorizes this agency to conduct lottery throwings in the larger cities at least once annually. Sponsors explained the resolution in the following joint statement:

"The lottery amendment to the constitution is introduced with the idea of providing the necessary funds to pay the old age pensions. No other reasonable source has yet been suggested. An old age pension amendment already was passed the senate and will probably pass the house, which would then allow the state to appropriate money for this worthy cause. It will probably pay into the old age pension fund not less than $5,000,000 per year and a like amount to the general revenue fund, which is sorely in need of money. In securing the money from these sources no debt will be incurred and revenue will be provided for those who are a legitimate charge upon the state."

The present status of the aged, who are incapable of doing manual labor since the FERA dropped them from the relief rolls, is extremely pitiful and greatly to be deplored. Under the lottery drawings, which will probably be held in the three large cities—Tampa, Jacksonville and Miami—immense crowds of people will be attracted to Florida. The balance of the nation will probably provide seventy-five percent of these $10,000,000.

"An amendment of similar nature is now before the legislature of Maryland and we hope and trust that Florida will be the first state in the union to take advantage of this system, which will easily provide the means of caring for its aged and will go a long way towards meeting the expenses of the state government."

Wayne Fuller, 45, of Moore Haven, injured at a construction job last night in the vicinity of Moore Haven Wednesday night was recovering at a local hospital. He was taken after receiving emergency treatment for a compound fracture of his left hip. The injured man, a foreman for E. H. Latham Construction Co., informed his physician, Dr. S. W. Fleming, that he was injured by a piece of sheet piling. He has been working at Moore Haven on a construction job.
